To be or not to be the recipient of a company car?

This is now a crucial question and one that you could benefit from by being able to answer in a clear and complete way. Assist your firm's employees in the future, especially when choosing their next car, by giving the right advice.

Cash or Car?

From 6th April 2002 the drivers who are likely to be the biggest losers are those who currently drive 18,000 business miles or more in a year. They are currently paying an income tax charge based on 15% of their car's list price and so they cannot be better off under the new 2002 regime and will have to drive one of the very cleanest cars just to stay neutral.

The winners are likely to be the 'perk' car drivers, whose tax charges are currently based on 35% of the list price of the car. They cannot be worse off under the new system even if they drive the most polluting vehicles.

The band of drivers covering between 2,500 and 18,000 business miles will contain both winners and losers under the new system, depending on the level of emissions of their new cars.

It was bad enough when the tax regime was constant from year to year but it is now critical that both you and your employees understand the tax consequences of company car ownership with the introduction of the emission based system of calculating car benefits from 6 April 2002.

The answer

In a bid to take the complexity out of this important new area of tax law PTP Software Limited has launched their unique Company Car Planner program.

The program has been designed by PTP to calculate the actual costs to the employee and the employer for either a company car or an own car. The review will cover any period within the range of 6th April 2001 to 5th April 2005 with the costs and tax effects for each year calculated and summary and detailed reports produced to guide the user to the optimum plan.

Alongside sample and default data concerning the vehicle itself, the employer and employee the Company Car Planner considers income tax, VAT, NI and corporation tax enabling the user to provide a comprehensive and accurate comparison coupled with allowing for the finance costs of the employer and employee.

Do you need help completing P11Ds?

The Inland Revenue require you, the employer, to report details of expenses and benefits. Since the penalty for negligent completion is £3,000 for each incorrect return the importance of accurate compliance cannot be ignored.

TaxExpense is a software product developed to help you complete your P11D returns. But, it is much more than that! The software does not just complete the P11D forms for you, the TaxExpense software is a program to use throughout the tax year to maintain the necessary records to submit the necessary returns at the end of the tax year.

TaxExpense does not make completing P11Ds any more attractive (unfortunately!) but does make it much easier and more accurate. Since it will allow you to enter information throughout the year the forms themselves can be produced at the "touch of a button" soon after each 5th April.

Copies of forms P11D and P9D all the working sheets and forms P11D(B) and P46(Car) and Class 1A/B calculations can be produced and information carried forward from year to year.

The full program, enabling 2001/02 P11Ds to be produced, will be available from March 2002 but a FREE OF CHARGE version is available to new users NOW to allow you to input your standing data in readiness for next April's update.
